

After submitting your report,

Accreditation staff will

- Place the report on the Accreditation Commission's next available agenda.
- Remind the museum to return its evaluation of your team's performance, if it hasn't already done so.
- Send to you and your team member
  - a letter or e-mail of acknowledgement
  - a copy of the commission's decision letter to the museum
  - feedback on the visit and report compiled from the museum's evaluation, the commission's evaluation, and the Accreditation staff's evaluation (following the commission's next meeting)

These materials indicate the end of your commitment to this museum and this visit. The confidentiality of the program continues. Any other involvement or contact with the museum after this point is at your discretion.

You should

- Return to the Accreditation office all self-study and supplementary documentation related to this visit as soon as possible. It is needed for the commission's review and its return in a timely manner is necessary.
- After receiving your copy of the commission's decision letter, destroy your notes from the visit. Prior to that time, the staff or commission may contact you with questions.

Accreditation always needs new Visiting Committee members. Please help us by recommending outstanding professionals you know. Serving as a peer reviewer is an excellent form of professional development. Information and application materials are available upon request or from the peer review section of the AAM Web site (www.aam-us.org/peer-review).
