Maine Archives & Museums (MAM) is the only professional association representing museums, archives, historical societies, and other collecting institutions in the state of Maine. Our purpose is to actively stimulate the flow of knowledge and support among organizations and individuals in Maine who identify, collect, interpret, and/or provide access to materials relating to history, living collections, and culture, in order to strengthen and promote all collecting institutions in Maine.

Through advocacy, research, professional development, networking, and promotions, MAM reaches beyond its own members to enhance and support all collecting institutions in Maine and their contributions to local, state, and national economies. MAM’s current and ongoing initiatives include:

- The Maine Cultural Institutions Outreach Project will create a public database of all collecting institutions in the state (estimated as high as 1,200)
- A Values Assessment workbook and curriculum for museums (awaiting notification of funding from the Institute of Museum and Library Services) that we anticipate may become a national model for the field
- As an outgrowth of the Values Assessment project, a public database of collections materials in Maine institutions
- An active and vital schedule of professional development workshops throughout the year, including our Annual Conference held each fall.

Museum Visitors Spend More
The economic impact of Maine’s collecting institutions is significant. Cultural tourism is one of the fastest growing segments of the tourism industry—estimated by some to be Maine’s largest and most important industry*—attracting visitors who tend to stay longer, spend more, and travel in the off-season. A 2009 Economic Impact Study of Maine’s museums confirmed what we know is true of the cultural tourist on a national level. Maine’s museums counted 6,832,330 annual admissions to events in 2009, resulting in a total annual economic impact of $148 million. This spending generated more than $7.5 million in tax revenue for local and state government and supported some 1,300 jobs in Maine.

MAM is committed in its support of these institutions and their impact as economic enterprises and a driving force behind tourism in the state. For more information visit us at www.MaineMuseums.org.
Museums Are Economic Engines

On a national scale, museums:

- Employ 400,000 Americans.
- Contribute $21 billion to the American economy each year (2008 estimate), encouraging economic growth in their communities.
- Draw visitors who stay 53% longer and spend 36% more money than other kinds of tourists.

“First Smithsonian Affiliate in Maine!”
—Abbe Museum, Bar Harbor

“With help of four student interns, and funded by donations, some 17 cartons of historic documents from the Town Office were archived, cataloged, and properly filed in our vault. This summer, those same four interns, again funded by donations, are completely upgrading labels in the Museum and reorganizing all the displays to make better use of our space.”

“Completed Maine Memory Grant project with six historical societies and Western Foothills School Union 10. Collaborative effort included Dirigo High students.”
—Dixfield Historical Society

“We have a project of preserving the Bailey Farm Windmill, which is on the National Register of Historic Places. This year, for the first time, it was hit by lightning. On two of the eight sides some shingles were blown off plus damage done to the interior. To date the project has been five years and we’re still working on it.”
—Anson Historical Society

“Applied for and received a grant from the Maine Historical Society’s Community Mobilization Program to design and launch an online exhibit with South Bristol’s grades 5 and 6 as our partners.”
—South Bristol Historical Society

“With a 20% increase in attendance last year attributed to a strong focused marketing plan.”
