[NAME OF PARTNER] ANNOUNCES SPONSORSHIP OF MUSEUMS ADVOCACY DAY 2022

[INSERT DATE AND LOCATION] -- [Partner name], [Description of partner], has stepped forward as an official sponsor of Museums Advocacy Day 2023 taking place February 27-28 in Washington, D.C.

Museum leaders and advocates from across the country will be meeting with members of Congress and their staffs to make the case for federal support of America's museums. [Partner name] will be among hundreds of museum professionals and supporters from across the country advocating for museums during the 15th annual Museums Advocacy Day, organized by the American Alliance of Museums.

Prior to the pandemic, museums supported more than 726,000 American jobs and contributed $50 billion annually to the U.S. economy. The economic activity of museums generates more than $12 billion in annual tax revenue, with one-third of it going to state and local governments. Each job created by the museum sector results in $16,495 in additional tax revenue.

"In order for [name of partner], and the museums they serve across the country, to continue to recover in the aftermath of the pandemic, we have to ensure that legislation at the federal level provides a level playing field in terms of the tax code and federal funding," said [advocate]. "[name of partner] is proud to be a partner in Museums Advocacy Day 2023 in service of the museum field, and advocate for the enormous and critical positive impact museums have on the U.S. Members of Congress (optional: insert here, "from [name of state/region]") need to hear from constituents about how (optional: [name of state/region/type of museums]) museums serve their community."

"Museums are essential to our country, as part of our educational infrastructure, as economic engines, and as community anchors," said Alliance president and CEO Laura L. Lott. "From addressing students' learning loss during the pandemic to supporting community members' mental health needs to addressing the climate crisis, museums continue to demonstrate the many ways they are vital to their communities and to helping society navigate many of our most pressing issues."

About the American Alliance of Museums:

The American Alliance of Museums (AAM) is the only organization representing the entire museum field, from art and history museums to science centers and zoos. Since 1906, we have been championing museums through advocacy and providing museum professionals with the resources, knowledge, inspiration, and connections they need to move the field forward.

Our Alliance of 35,000 museums and museum professionals seeks to better our communities, and our world, through collaborative human-centered experiences, education, and connection to histories, cultures, the natural world, and one another. Our members spark curiosity and wonder, widen horizons and understanding, and create community connection through a shared commitment to equity and learning.
